

Atlas Ci Weather-Ometers® Available at a 10% Savings!

Dear Atlas Customer:

As you may be aware, Atlas introduced a new User Interface (UI) for its Weather-Ometers in late 2011. The new User Interface provides a number of improvements, including:

- Larger full-color touch screen
- Improved control system navigation
- Ethernet connections to Local Area Network (LAN) for remote access/control; available in several languages
- USB connections for standard data acquisition functions and software updates
- Improved trend plot tools

In order to implement this new User Interface, Atlas utilized several Ci units for performance validation. We are now making these “like new” Ci units available for sale at 10% off current list price. These instruments, which include Ci3000, Ci4000 and Ci5000, have fewer than 500 Atlas test line operating hours on them and the Atlas factory 12-month warranty for parts and labor would apply.

Atlas has only a very limited number of discounted instruments available for each model. This offer will expire when all instruments have sold, so act quickly! Please contact your local Atlas sales support representative to reserve one of these “like new” factory instruments today.
